New York Stock Market

Beigl character of the present market practically killed speculative interest stagnation to-day. Tentative selling operations at the outset seemed designed mainly to test the market. The operations of the outset seemed designed mainly to test the market. The rapid declines which resulted were in contrast with the case with which prices had advanced in previous assistons in response to concurrated buying orders from a few sources. No regressive attempt was made to renew the advance, and the last prices were only a little above the lowest.

News bearing on the day's movement was not important. The prominence given to the relations with Mexico was said to give some ground for uneastness, but the matter was not taken very seriously. The discussions of egenings in relation to dividend requirements of spring wheat, grangers and of New York Central was a more substantial influence and was reflected in the special weakness of those stock.

The money market continued to work easier. It was reported at the Stock Exchange that funds were supplied from Standard Oil sources, and this employment of funds was held to argue indifference towards the course of the stock market operations in groups of capitalists. Sales are being made in the New York market of moderate issues of investment demand, and the necessity for extra attractions and an inducement. Success was reported for an offering of Kansas City Terminal 4 percents at 51, and $15,000,000 Chicago and Northwestern general mortgage bonds were sold to bankers to bear 4 per cent, previous issues under this mortgage having been made at 312 per cent. Provious issues under this mortgage having been made at 312 per cent on theird of the day's business was done in United States Steel, and another third in Union Pacific without allowance for the half shares of the Reading stock.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales par value, $2,031,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Total sales of stocks for the day were 445,800 shares.

COTTON MARKET.

New York, November 17.—The cotton market lost its advance of yesterday's trading sithough; there was no apparent change in the general character of the news, and the close was very steady at the net decline of 2812 points. The opening was steady at the net decline of 2812 points. The opening was steady at the net decline of 2812 points. The opening was steady at the net decline of 2812 points. The opening was steady at the net decline of 2812 points. The opening was steady showing but initial prices here; were considered higher than due from Liverpool, and as soon as the first bunch of buying orders had been supplied the market turned easier under realizing by scalping longs and local hear pressure in the absence of outside support or of any aggressive demand from the buil loaders. A little demand developed around 14,50 for May on a scale down, but proved insufficient to more than temporarily check the decline, and at one time during the early afternoon prices showed a net loss of 17@18 points, with May selling at 14.45, the lowest point reached so far since the publication of the last census report. Around this level there was considerable covering by early sellers and a fresh buying, as a result of which the market steaded and closed several points up from the lowest. Part of the selling during the day appeared to some from trade interests, and was attributed to the liquidation of hedges following the increased receipts, but there was moderate buying on declines from other trade sources, and it appeared that general ventiment was mixed with outside business, holding off for the ginning report next Monday. The action of the revision committee last night in continuing the old difference between grades of spot cotton delivered on contract seemed to attract no special comment, and the only fresh development in the way of crop estimate was a report from a prominent Alabama firm placing the yield at 13.85,600 bales. Southern spot markets officially reported early were unchanged to 1.16c, lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Ill., November 17.—Drought in the Canadian Northwest helped put up the price of wheat here to-day. It was also asserted that more rain was needed in Argentina. The market closed with a net gain of 16 Market, to 16 Market, but the profit-taking made the first terms of the second of 1.014c, to 1.03c, but the profit-taking made the final tone weak. Corn finished 1.c. lower than last night, and cats 1.05c. There was an irregular windup in provis-ions, varying from 10c. advance to an equal decline.
